

Decisions, Decisions

To ensure your special day runs without a hitch or glitch, decisions need to be made, sometimes about things you have probably not even considered yet.

This is where Guy can assist you.

Who needs support?

The Bride, the Bridegroom, the Best Man and The Parents!

You all do.

Who needs to be liaised with?

The Registrar, the Chauffeur, the Venue Management, the Photographer, the Videographer, Musicians, the D.J.?

They all do.

Who wants to have a perfect day?

You both do.

Etiquette, procedure, protocol, sequence of events, adherence to cultural tradition and custom, are key to providing a smooth and stress free day for everyone

Of course, the Best Man always wants to get it right first time. He will not want to let anyone down and often, through no fault of his own, even the most confident Best Man may need guidance at the appropriate time.

Trained and Professional, recognisable in traditional sporting pink, Guy will ensure that every aspect of your day is managed with dignity, experience, and good humour. He will work to alleviate potential problems that may arise and deal with them, probably without your even being aware there was a problem in the first place.

That is Guy's job.

What Happens Next

Contact Guy and he will discuss every aspect of the big day that requires consideration.. He may enlighten you with areas that so many couples may not give a thought to because there are so many things to think about.

Who does what, when and why?
Who says what to whom, how and when?

Do you want a receiving line?
What is the format of the receiving line?
What is the order of the Speeches and Toasts?
Are there any family issues he needs to be aware of?

Guy will contact the Venue Management and discuss the facilities, layout and planned format for the day.

Closer to the event Guy will usually meet with the Bride, Groom and Parents to fine tune the arrangements.

He will also produce a written 'Reception Programme' specifically for the Bridal Party, summarising the day with timings.

Guy's warmth and humour coupled with experience and professional knowledge ensures you are in safe hands – all day.

You were wonderful and helped make our day so special
